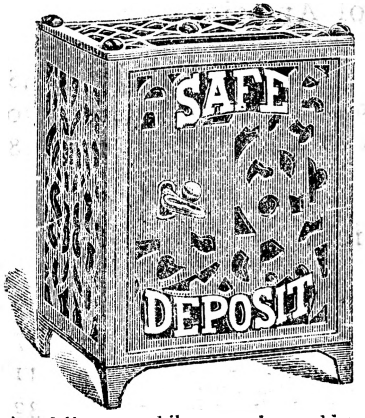
(Stall 10. London Philatelic Exhibition. July 22nd to Aug. 5th.)



NEARLY EVERY BODY collects stamps nowadays, it has grown to be an enormous business, and young and old seem to be alike fascinated with it. Once a person becomes interested in the collection of a few stamps it is surprising the educational influence it awakens, stimulates his mind and he soon learns to become familiarly acquainted with the geographical location and advantages of different countries, as well as to study the lives and character of their rulers.

It is an agreeable and at the same time an instructive occupation and serves to refresh the mind after all the other elements that enter into our busy life have failed. It shows us the progress and development of civilization all over the globe and puts us in close touch with all of the nations of the earth and gives the imagination full sway while a ponderous historical book would only serve to confuse and then fail to satisfy us as a bright little stamp is sure to do.—(SELECTED).

Stamps are a "SAFE" investment and will give you good interest for the outlay.
